LEXINGTON: Printed by JOHN BRADFORD, at his Office on Main Street; where Subscriptions, (at Fifteen shillings per Annum) Advertisements &c. are thankfully received, and Printing into different branches done with Care and Expedition.

TO the PUBLIC.

THE period has arrived which makes it indispensably necessary to enlarge my former plan, & that which is now before you. It is needless to attempt to recount the reasons, as they must occur to all most every individual.

As the fate of a newspaper depends entirely on the number and punctuality of the subscribers, I have no doubt but that the same motives which have hitherto induced the friends to this paper to keep it in existence until the present time, will continue; and have every reason to flatter myself, that as it shall rise in merit, the encouragement will also increase in a much greater proportion.

This paper will be published every Saturday, at 15s. per Annum; and those who have hitherto been subscribers will be continued, unless they direct to the contrary.

The public's most obliged and very humble Servt.

JOHN BRADFORD

Lexington Sept. 17. 1791

Nearly ready for the press and will be published, as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers can be obtained.

HOLLAND'S ESSAY

In three parts.

I. Containing the contract of Creation and Redemption, shewing that the fundamental doctrines of Calvin and Arminius joined together, compleatly forms the foundation or system of Universal Restoration, without the smallest diminution or addition.

II. The method and manner of the restoration of all to its original state of rectitude and innocence in which it was at first created, opening a plain and familiar light into the Prophet Ezekiel's visions and the Revelations.

III. The Apostolic mode of Church Government, shewing the two Olive branches which thro' the two Golden pipes empties the golden oil out of themselves, or the formation of the man Christ Jesus out of his members.

When the above is put to press, the terms will be made public.

CONSTITUTION
Or form of GOVERNMENT.

THE two houses of Assembly shall by joint ballot, appoint Judges of the Supreme Court of Appeals, and General Court, Judges in Chancery, Judges of Admiralty, Secretary, Attorney General and Register of Land Office, to be commissioned by the Governor, and continue in office seven years, and during good behaviour, at the expiration of which term, they or any of them may be eligible to be re-elected again; In case of any of their deaths, incapacity or resignation, the Governor with advice of Council shall appoint persons to succeed in office, until the next meeting of Assembly when they shall be approved of, or displaced by both houses as before directed, for the remainder of the time. They shall have fixed but moderate salaries, removable at any time for misbehaviour by the General Assembly. They shall not be allowed to sit as members in the Continental Congress, executive council, or General Assembly, nor hold any office civil or military, nor take or receive fees or perquisites of any kind.

The two houses of Assembly shall by joint ballot appoint in every county in this State, three magistrates or judges of the Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions, (who shall be inhabitants in said county,) and most noted for their understanding and knowledge, of good moral characters, anyone of them with three Justices of said county, as hereafter is directed to be appointed, shall be a quorum to hold court, and shall hold their office during seven years, and good behaviour, at the expiration of which term may be eligible to be re-appointed. All commissions shall be in one name and by the authority of the freemen of the commonwealth of Kentucky, joined with the State seal, signed by the Governor or Lieutenant Governor and attested by the Secretary, which seal shall be kept by the council.

All prosecutions shall commence at above, and bear cost to the clerks of the Courts; Indictments shall conclude, against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth. The style of all process in this State shall be, The Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Sheriffs and Coroners shall be elected annually in each county in this state, by the free men thereof, at the annual elections, to be commissioned by the governor, no person shall be eligible in the sheriffs office more than three years in five; they shall also choose a county Treasurer, to receive and pay charge of the public money, to be accountable for, and dispose of it, as shall be directed by all of Assembly. The Election shall be held at the same time and place appointed for the election of representatives.

That full opportunity may be given to the good people of this State of exercising their right of suffrage, each of the officers holding the annual elections in the different counties, shall continue the same from day to day, for five days including the first day. The election shall be opened on the first day at the Courthouse, or the place where the courts are generally held, and may be adjourned from place to place any where within in said County as may be agreed upon by the candidates, or the majority of them during said five days, for the convenience of the electors attending.

And the Sheriff or his clerk shall note down in a fair list each and every persons name giving in his ticket, [to detect any person voting twice] when the election is closed, the Sheriff or other superintending the election, shall deliver to each person duly elected, a certificate of his election, evidenced by two or more respectable freeholders of said county; and moreover shall transmit within one day a general return to the Secretary of the State. And that the persons of the electors may be free from any dread or fear in attending elections and giving in their voice. That the body of any person, entitled to their vote at the general election shall be free and exempt from arrests, and engagements in any civil action, during his going to, returning from, and at said election, any time within the five days, within the county.

The several counties in this State shall be divided and laid off by the justices of the respective county courts, into townships, precincts or divisions, that may be most convenient for the ease of the inhabitants, each and every of the same, shall be entered on record by the clerk of each county court describing the boundaries thereof; and the freemen of each township shall elect two or more honest judicious persons of good moral characters for justices of the peace, and their names shall be returned to the governor, who shall commission one or more of them for each township to continue in office during the term of seven years, and good behaviour, and at the expiration of the term shall be eligible to be re-elected.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

LONDON, May 20.

THE Pope's Bull, which has been publicly burn'd at Paris, contains these words:

"The King would not have sanctioned the civil constitution of the clergy, had he not been contrai'd, and even forced to it by the National Assembly — in the letters which the King has written to us plainly testify this. The

This declaration has set new spirits at work more publicly, though not very politely declare — what either the French King, or the Italian Pope must have done — and then will see what it is. These letters therefore are to be saved for the National Assembly, this M. Montmorin may justify himself on the subject.

Two thousand drum boys or militiamen have been put up in Dublin since the passing of the late act of the Irish parliament, to prevent the alarming use of seditious liquors in Ireland.

Mr. Burke has become the object of pity to his friends. The oppositionists say he is now mad — Common Sense asserts that he has been so — and the only prator himself confesses that his faculties are impaired through a long and severe attention to public numbers.

This is certainly the epoch for uncontrollable revolution in Church, as well as State — for what a roger could have divided that in the year 1791, the mild legislature of Britain would have been occupied in granting clemency and indulgences to the Romish Church, at the precise moment that his Holiness the Pope was burnt in effigy at Paris, by the hand of the common hangman! He has lost his glory Ecclesiastic.

On Tuesday evening, after a litigation of eight years, the claimants on goods seized by Lord Rodney and General Vaughan, at St. Eustatius, in the year 1782, were paid the full amount of their several claims pursuant to a final decision of the Lords of the Privy Council.

AMERICAN OCCURRENCES

LEXINGTON, October 3.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Philadelphia, to his friend in this place, dated August 16th 1791.

"Dissenters were never before so terrible in England to the church, or to majesty as they now are. Every man of the church and every friend to monarchy, now with them had done that powerful body of men before of justice long ago; but their late involves a dilemma; If their just rights are recognized, they will give such weight to the friends of a revolution as cannot be withstood: and if those rights are refused them, the principles which force their way into the hands of all men will justify every attempt tending to assert and recover those rights, which requires but a effort, to be made use as any human event can be and this effort a great majority are beyond a doubt ready to make, at a moments warning, and only wait the signal of a suitable opportunity, which cannot be long wanting. An obdurate perseverance by the ministry in their project of compelling Ruthia to relinquish all her conquests may afford that opportunity — and any considerable disaster in pursuit of that project, certainly will afford it — it is impossible, that a clairon against the minister for his foolish conduct toward America, respecting a commercial treaty, may be produced immediately after the effect of that conduct is felt in forming us into manufacturers which in paper-making, card-making, Steele, and many other articles are now perfect here — or any other thing, which may distract the public mind but for few days — The nation is ripe for the measure, — in every part except perhaps a small piece of the North side, which a little yet may rotten in a short time.

"The Antislavery party of Pennsylvania have not derived from the new Constitution the advantage they certainly expected, at least for the present, the elections most generally turning in favour of the democratic interest — There is however, a good understanding tolerably well kept up, between the parties, and they will probably wear each other down, so as to look pretty much alike in a few years — The points on which they will be the most liable to differ widely, will be, I presume, those in which the government of the United States run aground the claims of this state. Some such will probably occur and occasion debates of some warmth, which, however will not last long — nor occur frequently."

Sometime last week a party of Indians stole 16 horses on Brainerd's credit.

About the same time, they stole upwards of fifty pack horses, belonging to the army, between Fort Washington and the camp.

About the first inst, a party of twelve men were defeated at rich land creek, on their way thro the wilderness, two of which were killed and one wounded.

Last week a man was killed near Frankfort, by the fall of a log, in raising a house.

On Tuesday last, two negroes in the streets of this town, riding full speed, ran against a man on horseback, threw him from his horse, and bruised him to that degree that he expired the next evening.

On Thursday evening, the Mountain Leader and his wife, arrived in this town on their way to fort Washington: They intend joining general St. Clair in the present expedition; they leave Lexington today.

THE FUNERAL.

SEE the pall-supporting bearers
All in undressing braw;—
See the train of stately weavers
Acting every mode of woe!

Silent crowds the spot surrounding,
Call'd the grand-receivers dome;
Dismal-sounding funeral sounding,
Fellow-mortals, follow home!

Lift! oh, lif! ye fate declaimers,
O whose words the many dwell:
Place-borrowing, patriot tame;
Hark! oh, hark!—tis grandeur's
knell.

Heralds loud proclaim the honors
Of this once puissant past;
Tell his titles!—count his manors!—
Lord of only this!—at last.

View the tomb with sculpture stolid,
View the sod with briers bound;
Here the face of mighty's ended;
All are equal under ground.

Fashions here their envy vanish'd;
Beauties he can't plead their forms
Here—precedencies all are banish'd;
Ofals, all, to odious worms.

Wife folks, weak ones—poor and
wealthy,
Tenants, unmitigating graves;
Naughty, humble, sick and healthy—
Freedom's sons and Asia's slaves.

Gloom no more the brow with sorrow,
Meet the moment come what may:
If we're a to die, to morrow,
Let us live like men to day.

We'll not lavish life's expences,
Nor be niggards while we have;
Let us please, not pull our sonies;
This is reason's holiday.

Here, to dances bid defiance—
Affections disp over;
Here's my toast—the grand alliance—
Freedom, friendship, wit and love.

AN E C D O T E.

THE late Dr. Magrath being called upon to visit a sick man, asked him as he entered the room, how he did—“O Doctor,” replied the man, in a plaintive tone, “I am dead.”
The Doctor immediately left the room, and reported in the neighbourhood, that the man was dead. The report was at first believed and circulated, but as soon as the mistake was discovered, the Doctor was asked,
“why he had propagated a false report?”—He replied, that “he did it upon the best authority; for he had it
from the man's own mouth.”
